Easter Dawn

"TIS Easter dawn," the lilies say,
"And Christ, our Lord, is risen to-day.
Let every heart be glad."
But in God's acre far away,
He lies, who once was blithe and gay,
My heart with dole is sad.

"What means the Easter dawn to me?"
I asked in gray despondency;
"My life is drenched and dead."
The lilies quivered as in pain.
"The one you love will live again,
And ever live," they said.

"Since Jesus lives, we cannot die,
For us He came on earth to buy
A life eternal. There,
Within a mansion safe, they too
Now live, the dearest ones we knew,
Secure from pain and care."

"O lilies, teach my heart to sing
This anthem of your risen King,
That I may learn to live."
Their fragrant censers looked at me
In love, and whispered tenderly:
"Yourself more freely give."

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT

E. A. Green Eulogized Vice-President Coolidge

Perhaps the largest number of men attending the Community Club banquet, were present at the Thursday night meeting of this organization. Every plate at the tables were taken and the meal was good and well served.
E. W. Camp presided at the table and called upon City Clerk L. Dietz, for a review of the water situation in Sierra Madre. Mr. Dietz, who is perhaps more familiar with the doings of the city government, than any one other man, spoke highly of the officials in the water department and gave graphic description of our water supply. Mr. Camp praised Mr. Harvey Steinberger for the splendid work done on the dry rock dams.

E. A. Green, of Williams College, a personal friend of Calvin Coolidge was the principle speaker of the evening. He eulogized our vice president and predicted great things for this man. Mr. Green has been in Southern California for some time in the interest of the near east relief.
Miss Gertrude Cook sang a solo and graciously responded to encores.
The moving pictures were fine and pleased the audience. Those who are attending the meetings will be greeted with a feast at the next meeting in April.

BY THE WAY

Hope—Imputed so deep that it is a part of human nature is a hope. History fails to record any race without it. Races that flourished and disappeared before written history began left evidences of that hope.

Ceremonial pictures from the earliest human records expressed the hope. Traditions handed down from still older periods echo it. Every succeeding age has emphasized and amplified the expression of it. It was a hardy mind that would conceive a Creator implanting such a hope in the human breast without prospect of fulfillment.

This hope inspired a question: If a man die shall he live again? Probably the earliest answer came from a comparison with nature. Men said "there is hope of a tree" if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, that the tender branches thereof will not cease.

The earliest ceremonials that have been preserved to us depict the cycle of life—birth, death and the resurrection. Upon this theme end its variations have hung the most monumental expressions of the human mind. It is echoed in tradition, literature and drama. It is reflected in architecture.

It would seem that the whole human race from its infancy to a period 4,000 years ago had joined vainly in the effort to find the answer to the great question. Then came the Nazarene, Calvary and the First Easter. The question was answered.

Since then the question has been asked as before. The answer has been plain and simple. Is it not evident that there has been no new development of the drama since then? Men who have sought the answer in spirit and in truth have been satisfied. G. B. M.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXXI.—CALIFORNIA

THERE is an atmosphere of romance enveloping the early history of California which even encircles the origin of the name. About 1520 a Spanish love story was published in which there was an imaginary island in the Far East called California. Some fifteen years later a party of Spanish adventurers came upon the peninsula which we now call Lower California. Believing that they had discovered a romantic island similar to the one in the novel, they called it California. Later on, the territory to the north became known as Alta California or High California and when it became a state, it was accordingly called California. The first settlers were the Franciscan monks who came up from Mexico and established missions, and many are the legends woven around these pioneer Padres. There shortly grew up Mexican settlements around the missions which the wonderful climate and fertile soil prospered.

The government, while under Mexican control, was more or less independent, and at the outbreak of the Mexican war, Fremont, who was later defeated for the presidency, occupied California. When peace was made in 1848, California became United States territory. That same year gold was discovered in the Sacramento Valley and the rush of people to California began. The population grew so rapidly that in 1850 California was admitted as the thirty-first state of the Union. With 158,297 square miles, it is the largest state except Texas. Politically, its power has been rapidly growing. California now has thirteen presidential electors.

A very happy, joyous Easter to all.

"The first day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeing the stone taken away from the sepulchre."—St. John X., 1.

The pathos of the inauguration was furnished by the retiring President, who glided out of the picture as a ghostly shadow of a greatness that once encompassed the earth. Two years ago he seemed in the prime of physical manhood and his intellect was the dominant one of Christendom. Today he appeared as little less than a broken and battered hulk on the shores of eternity. Weak and wan and wasted, he contributed a spectacle that inspired only sympathy. Even his enemies could indicate no rancor. But though physically broken the mind is still alert and masterful. Perhaps it will become more mellow and serene now that the scepter of authority has passed. Immediate history will do Woodrow Wilson the justice of endowing him with a passion for the highest ideals — ideals to which he gave the most unselfish devotion. He was a Sir Galahad in quest of the Holy Grail. But he was one that walked alone. That he failed in the fruition of his hopes was due to his neglect to secure the enthusiastic co-operation of his fellows. He would not only direct the orchestra, but he would play all the instruments. He trusted no judgment but his own and it was natural that he should himself be misjudged. A Crusader should not journey single handed. The ultimate judgment of the world will concede Woodrow Wilson to be one of its few great men, but he will be shown upon a mountain top—and alone.

Thus one of America's great men passes from the Presidency into private life. And while we are welcoming his successor in that high office, it is with admiration, respect and sympathy that The Times bids goodbye to Woodrow Wilson, the chieftan. With whole-hearted sincerity we say, "God be with him."

For eight years Woodrow Wilson has piloted the great ship, America, and for five of them through the stormiest waters it has ever been called upon to sail. For a brief period he was the dominating figure of the world and honorably stood for all that was best and noblest in American ideals. During the dreadful stress of the mighty conflict he gave himself, his all, his best, for the Allied cause and for the greater glory of the United States, faithfully following the guidance of his highest principles. He as surely fought the war through and bore the tremendous burdens of the era as did any commander-in-chief of the great armies in the field. He leaves his office a tragic figure, broken in health, and torn of spirit, with the consummation of the mighty mission he set himself still unfulfilled, a mission for which, perhaps, he has given his life as truly as many of the heroic dead.

Whatever his mistakes, whatever his failures, whatever his political views, Woodrow Wilson will go down in history as one of America's great men, as one of the arch heroes of the world's Armageddon, who sought to make America greater than herself, greater than her own. Not greater in conquest and wealth, but greater in spiritual attainment, greater in soul.

The very faults of his temperament were great. The greatest phrase maker of his age, he strove to sternly abide by those great phrases that they might become greater deeds. Yet by compromise, by the lesser greatness of his strategy and diplomacy, by "stooping to conquer" he might have seen his mighty vision brought to fruition. For his greatest mistake, his bitterest failure, was the antagonizing of the American Senate, without whose aid and co-operation his ideals could not be consummated. But for that arbitrary self-sufficiency and narrow political vision, the United States might be in the League of Nations today—a great and dominant power in that mighty league for retrieving humanity from the hates and intrigues, the greeds and jealousies and the incredible demencies that lead to ghastly, cruel and wicked wars. A consummation, we say, still devoutly to be wished.

Another mistake of Wilson's, founded, nevertheless, upon sentimental justice, was his advocacy of "self-determination of small peoples." Theoretically this has all the earmarks of the greater democracy, even though in practice it is proving the inspiration for more conflict and unrest. For many small nations have been dependent so long and are unlearned in the complications, the burdens, the vast responsibilities of self-government, that the insidious creed of self-determination can occasion little but confusion and discontent at this stage of their history. But Woodrow Wilson sowed the fertile seed of "independence" and the ebullient agitators have seen to it that it is faithfully cultivated to a rank growth without the essential years of preparation and the slow but healthy development necessary to success.

But if Woodrow Wilson has failed, it is not an ignoble failure—and is, The Times believes, merely a temporary failure at that. And if he is broken-hearted today, his soul may yet reap the exaltation of seeing his great vision materialize, his life-work consummated by another great American coming after him. His bravery, principles, his tremendous physical sacrifice will not have been in vain. America is a finer, nobler country today, no matter what his failures, for that fact that Woodrow Wilson was its President during the great world crisis.

Not for nothing did Wilson of the United States dominate the peace conference in France. Not for nothing did the whole world hang upon his words and the statesmen of the powers pay him tribute. His force of character, his outstanding personality, his fearlessness in defying the old hateful but deep-rooted traditions, his magnanimous outlook, his international mind commanded that faith in his own and America's basic integrity which could not be denied. But he lacked the subtlety, the lesser ability to compromise, of a Lloyd George, he lacked the elasticity of mind—and his autocratic, unbending righteousness of purpose he temporarily defeated his own great ends.

"Why, man, he did bestride the world

Like a Colossus. And we petty men Did walk and peep beneath his huge legs

To find ourselves dishonorable graves. Men are at some time masters of their fate. The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, But in ourselves, that we are underlings."

And so, like Caesar: "The noble Brutus hath told you that Caesar was ambitious; if so it was a grievous fault, and grievously hath Caesar paid for it. . . . But yesterday the word of Caesar might have stood against the world." But now he lies there, stabbed through the heart, even as Caesar by his Senators—and like Caesar, he has left a noble will, not parks and public grounds, but a noble heritage of an idealism that, God grant, his country may never lose or basely squander.

"Judge, oh, ye gods, how dearly Caesar loved us.

Oh, what a fall was there, my countrymen!

Then I, and you, and all of us feel down,

Whilst bloody treason flourished over us."

And so as President Wilson steps down to resume his place amongst us as an ordinary citizen. The Times wholeheartedly pays him tribute, as one of America's great men.

And his soul goes marching on.

LARGE CROWD HERE SUNDAY

P. E. Officials Estimated 1800 People Visited Mountain Resorts

The out of town crowd visiting Sierra Madre and the mountain resorts was estimated at 1800 people by the Pacific Electric officials. Sunday was a beautiful day and the crowds commenced coming early. Two car special trains were run hourly from Los Angeles. Add to this the crowds that came out Saturday night and the crowds that came in automobiles and you will get some idea as to the number of people that came to this town every week. The restaurants and eating establishments were sold out long before night and many people went home in the evening without food.

"He is Risen." (Mark 16, 6)
Come, let us rejoice, my brothers,
Bring lilies to altar and shrine,
Ring out, Easter bells, 'He is Risen'
For you is the token and sign—
He is calling you now, this moment—
Rejoice as His message you heed,
He conquered the Grave and its darkness—
The Lord is risen indeed! W.J.T.

THE EASTER PARADE

We're smiling once more at the Easter parade,
The charming young things in fresh costumes arrayed!
Pert bonnets and tresses
And dazzling new dresses.

There's Millicent, Mabel and dainty Marie,
In changeable silk, just as chic as can be!
In corals and tresses
This trio of girls
Remind you of Neriads fresh from the sea!

There's the daughter of Erin, the merry Kathleen,
Bewitching in tunic of soft crepe de chine,
Her corsage bouquet
Is of lilies today,
Her veil and her stockings of emerald green!

Flora's hat is of roses and sweet magnolia,
While Birdie's is trimmed in a fancy aigrette;
But Betty's new bonnet—
Oh! how could she don it?
Just a rim, and a crown covered over with jet!

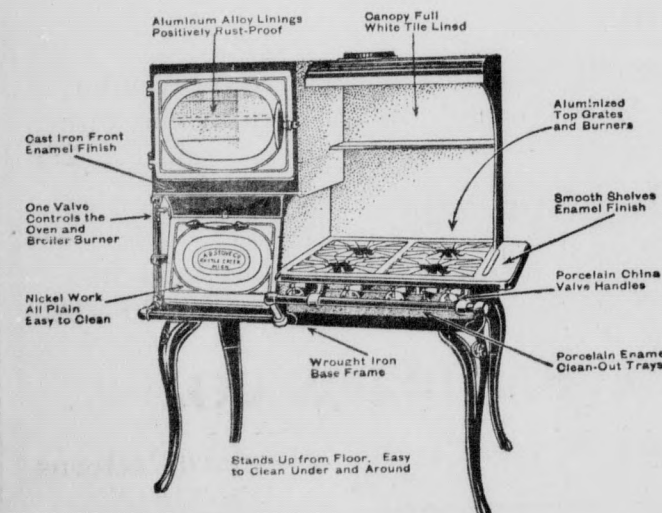

True there is the cheap imitation brocade,
For along with the gold is the tinsel displayed!
But all nature seems newer,
The skies always bluer,
When mingled once more in the Easter parade!

Long Beach Job Printer Picked Traveling Too Fast On
Mt. Trail Ave.

T. M. Courtney, a Long Beach job printer, visited the Sierra Madre canyon Sunday and on the return home he neglected to use his brakes properly coming down Mountain Trail Avenue and thereby solicited an invitation to visit Judge Forman's court Wednesday morning. Mr. Courtney came to town Wednesday and did his best to draw a good sized fine but the judge ignored the unkind remarks and gave him a five dollar fine. Upon leaving the court, Mr. Courtney called on the News and stated that his wife was a sick woman and that he had contemplated coming to Sierra Madre for her health, but since he had received such a "tremendous" fine for running the chances of killing some one, he would take his wife home with him. And he intimated that he would have spent thousands of dollars in Sierra Madre.

We are sorry, indeed, that Mr. Courtney cannot see fit to locate with us. But for his spending a great amount of money in Sierra Madre, we doubt his statement. If he did such a thing he would be the first of Sierra Madre's Long Beach colony to do such a thing. We are glad to have people from other towns locate with us, but we want people who can expect to obey the laws and not use Sierra Madre as a suburb and subject Sierra Madre to suburban indignities. We want people who are civilized and Christianized.

Woman's Club

Business and Pleasure

The Board of Directors of the club instead of holding their regular business meeting at the club house, on Monday, motored to Fish Canyon, where they enjoyed a most delicious picnic lunch, under the lovely old oak trees, beside the stream. Following the lunch the regular business of the club was transacted, at an adjourned session, the following ladies being present, Mesdames F. P. Sperry, C. E. Newton, Spencer Howard, W. H. Ingraham, J. Milton Steinberger, W. R. Morgan and Palmer Rhodes.

A Success

The St. Patrick's Dance given at the club house on the evening of March 18th was a delightfully pleasant affair and was largely attended. The club rooms were attractively decorated, the lights all being shaded by large shamrocks, cleverly constructed of green crepe paper. The "Wearing of the Green" was made possible to all present, as each person upon entering was presented with a large green carnation. Another novel idea was the serving of green punch. The music was exceptionally good, and the function altogether lovely.

The meeting will be open to the public, the community being invited to accept the club's hospitality for the occasion, the wives and daughters of the first settlers being especially invited as guests of honor.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF J. D. McAREE

Mrs. W. H. Ingraham and Mrs. J. Milton Steinberger were hostess at a most delightful farewell party given in the parlors of the club house on Wednesday evening, of the past week. The party was complimentary to Mr. J. D. McAree, who after an extended visit of several months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Newton, will leave Monday for his home in Cleveland, Ohio.

The guests enjoyed cards and dancing until a late hour, when a supper, elaborately appointed in every detail, was served. A novel and appropriate center piece occupied the table. It depicted the scenes of Mr. McAree's expected homeward route, from the snow-capped mountains of Sierra Madre, over the desert, thru the large cities covered by the Santa Fe, by a miniature Lake Erie and finally to his destination, Cleveland, Ohio. Around this attractive scene a miniature train of cars with its tiny head light flashing, rushed madly, causing frequent merriment by occasionally running off the track. Upon each place card was an amusing picture of a very little man, with a very large valise. Favors were in the form of tiny boxes of desert sand in which were planted blue and yellow daisies. Guests at the charming affair were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Sperry, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rhodes, Mrs. Spencer Howard, Miss Mattie Seeley, Mrs. Urban, Miss Donna Harter, Milton Steinberger, Herbert Ingraham, Herbert Spencer and the guest of honor, Mr. J. D. McAree. Mr. McAree has made many friends during his stay here who deeply regret his departure.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

The Twentieth Annual Convention of the Federation of Womens Clubs, will be held on the 19-20-21 of April at Pomona. Headquarters will be at the Ebell Club House. Delegates from our home club will be Mesdames F. P. Sperry, J. Milton Steinberger and W. H. Ingraham.

FIREMEN ARE GRATEFUL

The Firemen's Club wishes to thank each and every one who assisted in the entertainment at the Woman's Club House. And to the people who have contributed money and those who have in any way assisted, they are very grateful.

OPEN AIR ADDRESS AT WINDSOR MANOR

The Prince John David de Windsor, Director of St. John's Mission for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, will deliver an open air address under the auspices of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, at Mount Tara, Windsor Manor, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The subject will be "Suggestions for the Preventive and Therapeutic Treatment of Pulmonary Consumption." The Prince devoted many years to medical research in India and in Europe, specializing in contagious and infectious diseases; in connection with which work he received the thanks of the British and Indian governments, and of the late King Edward. The ancient medical systems of India, Ayurveda and Yunani were closely followed for many years, and the great benefit to be derived from those systems has been scientifically established in the treatment of the great white plague. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

CHINESE RELIEF FUND

Have people forgotten the starving children of famine stricken China, in the rush of so many other affairs? So far there has only two-hundred dollars contributed towards this worthy cause, in Sierra Madre. Remember and send or bring your donations to H. E. Allen, cashier of First National Bank. This is the last week of the drive and Sierra Madre surely does not want to be found lagging in contributing to this humane cause.

THE MEANEST PERSON

One of the most contemptible deeds of which we have heard since being in this fair town, came to our attention this week. A certain citizen of this town who died last week was interred in the Sierra Madre cemetery, the interment occurring at 3 o'clock. At 5 o'clock some friends who were unable to attend the services visited the grave of the deceased and found that some one had taken all the tulle and ribbons from the floral offerings, and that some of the flowers were gone. They would have to be removed by human hands as the tulle and ribbon were securely fastened. Whether this act of vandalism was committed by child or adult, it is a contemptible thing, and only a moral degenerate could stoop to such an ignominy.

IMPORTANT PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

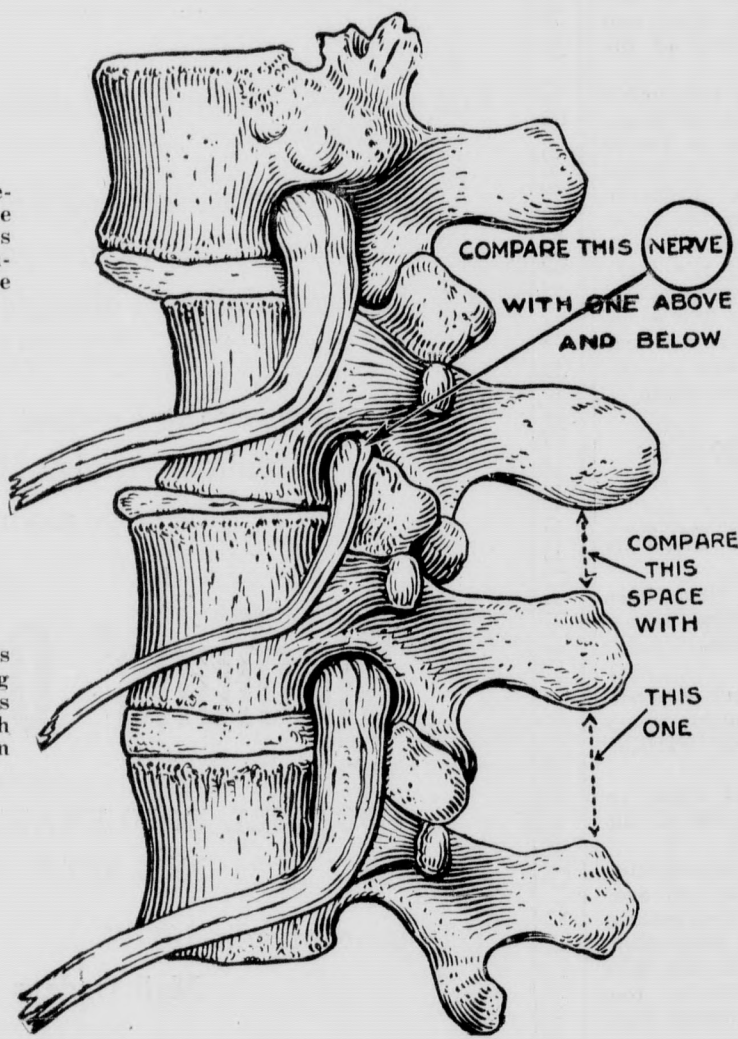

This Announcement Submitted by Tracy & Tracy, Pasadena's Leading Chiropractors, 224-226 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., (2nd floor) for Publication in the Sierra Madre News. (See Note Below).

LIKE ALL OTHER GREAT DISCOVERIES, FIRST IGNORED-- CHIROPRACTIC Gains international Prestige

ARE YOU INFORMED OF THE NATURE OF THIS NEW SCIENCE?

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IT IS DOING RIGHT HERE IN PASADENA?

Showing how vertebra having become subluxated results in a smaller opening between the segments.

Showing how this reduced opening chokes or pinches the nerve which connects the brain with affected part.

Originally scoffed upon, then ridiculed, later bitterly attacked by contending professions, yet gaining recognition through "miracle" recoveries—this is the history of Chiropractic; the science of restoring health through spinal adjustments.

Following in the wake of the recent recovery of a child who talked continually for over two hundred hours, additional press dispatches of still newer cures have gained publicity, thousands of people from the Atlantic to the Pacific have expressed an unusual interest in the science, several state legislatures have officially recognized the profession and more similar bodies are on the verge of encouraging it through legislative assistance.

Therefore, in compliance with the desire of the masses to understand Chiropractic's proven principles, a brief explanation of the science is given here and along with it an illustration of part of the human spine, showing its control over other parts of the body.

Men and women here in Pasadena (as well as elsewhere) uninformed of the manner by which ailments are first caused in the spinal column and reflected in corresponding points of the body, have wasted their lives when a few short visits to this office would have relieved them.

True, Chiropractic will not cure every condition, nor will any honest Chiropractor claim his science to be a "cure-all," yet a record of diseases it has cured cover practically every ailment known to the human race.

At your request Tracy & Tracy will refer you to those they have adjusted, who recovered after hope was almost abandoned and who have volunteered to testify for your benefit.

Conclusively; be fair to yourself! Consider the advance of this science in the true light of its actual accomplishments. No one can afford to ignore it if the price of that disregard be a continued wasted life.

No Drugs, No Surgery, No Osteopathy;
Non-Therapeutical
CHIROPRACTIC Alone Makes Wrong Right!

CHIRAPRACTIC is based on the fact that disease is the result of pressure upon the nerves. Such pressure can exist where the nerve trunks are given off from the spinal cord and pass between the bony segments which make up the spinal column.

The above illustration shows how these openings are normally of ample size to accommodate the nerve trunks without hindrance. But these vertebrae do assume unnatural positions as a result of injuries such as falls or twists, and consequently the nerve openings are reduced in size, after which the organ supplied by this particular nerve trunk becomes deficient in its activities.

Whether this interference expresses itself in one form or another depends upon the character of the nerve fibres involved. If they are motor fibres the result is muscular weakness; if they are sensory fibres the result is abnormal sensations, as pains or paralysis.

Thus it can be seen that the character of the disease depends upon the type of nerve fibre involved, while the location of the ailment depends upon the part of the spine which has a subluxated vertebra.

Therefore; the first object of a Chiropractor is to make an analysis of the spine, determine the points of dislocation and then adjust them at regular intervals until Nature has again had a chance to right itself.

N. B.: Tracy and Tracy, 224-226 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Pasadena, are graduates of the world's greatest Chiropractic college (The Palmer School of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa), and will gladly give FREE INFORMATION and make FREE EXAMINATION to all who sincerely desire to know if they can be relieved by Chiropractic. Phone Fair Oaks 1025. Lady Chiropractor. Hours: 9-12, 1-5. Also Tuesday Thursday and Saturday evenings 7-8. Calls anywhere, anytime.

Famous Paintings of Our Savior's Agony and Death

It seems fitting that at Easter time one's thoughts should turn to the art galleries which contain the famous paintings portraying the crucifixion and resurrection of our Savior. For generations most of them have hung upon the walls of museums of Europe and have been an inspiration not only to lovers of art, but to all Christians as well who have studied and admired the conception of the artist and the manner in which that conception has been portrayed on the canvas.

RUBENS.

One of the world's most noted paintings showing Christ on the Cross is by Peter Paul Rubens. It has but the one figure—the dying Christ, hanging on the cross. The background is dark, the sky being almost black, which brings out more fully the real beauty and richness of the work. The head of Christ has fallen against the right arm and a peaceful expression is on the face, showing that the agony has passed. The body has sagged and the muscles of the arms are prominent. Blood trickles from the nail holes in the hands and feet, while that from the wound in the side has dripped on the loin cloth, which is draped in graceful fashion. The figure is well drawn, being a perfectly natural form of a tall slender man of the age of Christ at the time of His crucifixion.

Rubens painted many pictures of the Christ, but this one is by far the most striking and beautiful. He was the chief master of the Flemish school of painting, and was one of the most versatile artists of all times. Beginning the study of art early in life he worked under many famous painters, particularly in Venice and Rome. He was a man of scholarly attainments, speaking six languages, and was intimately acquainted with nearly every ruler in Europe, the majority of whom gave him commissions for pictures. He died at Antwerp in 1640.

DURER.

Another great canvas showing Christ on the Cross is the work of Albrecht Durer, and like the one of Rubens shows only the figure of the Savior. The background is an almost inky cloud with the fading sunset sky near one foot of the cross, and a few trees standing in the foreground. The figure is stretched on the cross and there is no wound in the side, the only blood showing being a few drops on the right hand. The body has sagged slightly, and the loin cloth flutters in the wind. The crown of thorns is pressed down on the head, the sweet sad face is upraised, the eyes are turned toward heaven in the agony, and the mouth slightly opened as if He were in the act of speaking. The real beauty of the canvas is in the face of Christ, and it has never been excelled in its sweet, spirituelle portrayal. The painting hangs in the National gallery at Dresden.

Durer was born at Nuremberg in 1471. At an early age he displayed great talent in drawing and in 1485 his father apprenticed him to the great painter Wohlgemuth, with whom he studied several years. Later he studied in Venice and traveled to all the art centers, where he made friends with the most noted men of his time, being particularly friendly with Martin Luther. His coloring is faultless and the faces, especially in his religious pictures, are regarded as almost sublime in their dignity. He was a man of great piety and in sympathy with the reformation movement. He died in 1528.

FRA ANGELICO DA FIESOLE.

Still another Christ on the Cross stands out in the art world—that canvas by Fra Angelico da Fiesole, a circular picture, which hangs in the Academy at Florence.

His Christ on the Cross is considered by art connoisseurs as one of his best. It contains three figures, the Christ on the Cross, the Virgin and

In Remembrance of Victory Over Death

Ye are messengers from Heaven,
From the Father to the Son,
A reminder, down the ages,
Of the Victory He won.

the Magdalen, Christ, wearing the crown of thorns, hangs on the cross. His head surrounded by a curious fan-shaped golden halo with three red stripes. The face shows sadness and is well drawn. The picture is rich in color, the background being a blue sky of the most vivid shade. The blood on the hands, side and feet which trickles down in three straight streams is a brilliant red, forming a strong contrast to the sky.

MURILLO.

Ecce Homo (Behold the Man), by Murillo, is regarded by many as the most beautiful painting of Christ in existence. This artist is noted for the sweetness of his faces, always with a touch of sadness, and in this he has excelled himself, for the whole makeup of the picture is sublime. A simple head of the Christ wearing the crown of thorns. The clear cut nose, delicate mouth and lowered eyes portray a pathos and spirituality rarely found on canvas. The background is dark brown, while the robe is a rich red. The painting hangs in the Prado gallery at Madrid.

Murillo was born in Seville in 1617, and although a poor boy became the chief master of the School of Seville. His early life was a struggle and it was not until after he married a lady of wealth that he was able to carry out his work to perfection. He painted many religious pictures, especially madonnas and scenes of the crucifixion. He died in 1682.

SOLARIO.

Ecce Homo (Behold the Man) by Andrea Solario, presents an entirely different conception of Christ. A bleeding head crowned with thorns is against a black background. The red robe has fallen from one shoulder, leaving the arm and part of the chest nude. The hands are tied together, one holding a long thin pointed stick. The face is almost stern with its tightly drawn mouth. The eyes are lowered and there is a tear drop falling from the left one. Indeed so remarkable is this painted tear drop that people stand fascinated before the picture, some of them declaring it is a real tear. The face shows the Man in deep thought. The picture is in the gallery at Milan and is by far the most striking of the entire collection.

Andrea Solario, who is responsible for the work, was a painter of Milan, born in 1460. He studied in Venice for a time and on his return to Milan fell under the influence of Leonardo da Vinci and was sent by the latter to complete some of the former's work for Cardinal d'Amboise. His work was so like that of da Vinci, both in drawing and coloring, that it is sometimes difficult to tell it apart. Ecce Homo, his masterpiece, was painted in 1515, shortly before his death.

OLD BELIEFS ABOUT EASTER

Deep-Rooted Ideas That Have Been Current From the Earliest Days of the Celebration.

There is an old weather superstition to the effect that if the sun shines on Easter it will shine on Whitsunday.

If you bathe with cold water on Easter day, you will keep well all the year.

There is another old superstition about eggs, and that is to rub over the face an egg that has been colored for Easter to have a nice complexion.

To cry on Easter is a sign you will cry the following Sunday, too. It is bad luck to keep Easter eggs. They should be destroyed.

If a rabbit runs across your path on Easter Sunday it is a good luck sign.

For the lovers, there is a warning that one should not get engaged on Easter Sunday, else the engagement will be broken.

"Give a man a red egg at Easter to secure his love," is an old gypsy amendment.

CONCERNING OUR WATER DEPARTMENT

City Engineer Mackerras Gives Some Interesting Information About Water Department Activities

On February 24th the Board of Trustees awarded contracts to the Western Pipe and Steel Co. and Crane Co., for water pipe, gate valves, hydrants and specials, to the amount of $14,500.00. Those figures are at the new prices now prevailing and show a saving to the city of over 3,250.00 on prices in force in 1920, says J. D. Mackerras, City Engineer.

He also states that a drop of ten per cent on the price of motors has just been received and he expects the city will also be able to show a saving on the pumps for which bids are soon to be called.

Owing to the fact that no bids were received for the digging of the trenches, it was necessary to re-advertise for same but it is expected that at least two bids will be received this time; work will then start immediately on the laying of the laying of the mains and hydrants.

The new well which was drilled by the Southern California Drilling Company was carried to a point thirty feet lower than the No. 2 well and passes through gravel and large boulders all the way, lots of water being encountered. This well promises to be even better than the other well which gives us 1000 gallons per minute with a draw-down of twenty-five feet. The water level in these wells is five and one-half feet lower than at this time last year and twenty-eight lower than in March 1917. By checking the storm run off by means of the check dams placed in Little Santa Anita Canon by the Flood Control Commission, this water level will be brought up quicker than it otherwise would. So far this season there has been only four days when water ran in the stream bed below the lowest check dam, that was the beginning of last week.

As the indication of the city's growth, the Water Department has had 45 applications for new services in the nine months of this fiscal year as against 20 last year and 13 for the year 1918-9.

SECTION 2. NOW THEREFORE, a special election is hereby called to be held in the said City of Sierra Madre, California, on the 26th day of April, 1921, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said City the proposition of incurring a bonded debt in the sum of Sixteen Thousand ($16,000.00) Dollars for the purpose set forth in said Resolution and hereafter stated.

SIERRA MADRE AS A CLIMATIC HEALTH STATION

In the Preventive and Therapeutic Treatment of Tuberculosis

By

Prince John David de Windsor

During the past twenty years almost every combination of known atmospheric conditions has been recommended as enjoying protective or therapeutic qualities in pulmonary consumption. High altitudes and low lands; warm dry climates and cold moist climates; the desert heat and the ocean breeze, with alternating fogs and storms; the tropics of Asia and Africa and the frozen North polar region. The chief preventive and curative value of any climate lies in the open-air life, aerogenic therapy. As practically every case of pulmonary tuberculosis is the result of aerogenic infection, the tubercle culosis. Life in the open air is not, however, to be accepted as a cure for the disease. The great South West is the part most favored for climatic treatment. The three departments of the United States service sanatoria are in the South West. Southern California is the most popular as a health resort for the pulmonary invalid, with its center at the foot of Mount Wilson. Hence, Sierra Madre, more than any other city, has long been noted the world over as the principal health resort in the United States, and indeed, the American continent. The world famous Carnegie Observatory was located at Mount Wilson as the result of exhaustive meteorological surveys of every possible point on the Pacific slope, from Vancouver to Lower California. The least atmospheric variations of any point from North to South are registered within the immediate vicinity of the southern slope of Mount Wilson. The most equable climate in America has been recognized in the foothills of Mount Wilson of the Sierra Madre range, embracing the Windsor Manor estate at the foot of Mount Tara, a shoulder of Mount Wilson, and within the city limits of Sierra Madre. It may be here stated that the meteorological surveys confirmed the previous report of the medical commis-

Executive Office El Reposo Sanatoria Windsor Manor, Mount Tara, showing Tropical and Semi-Tropical Trees

bacilli being inhaled directly into the lungs, so too pure air is inimical to bacteria life. The sun is destructive to tubercle bacilli. Hence, helio therapy is one of the most valuable preventive and curative agents in tuberculosis which had placed the site of the old El Reposo of Windsor Manor as the first climatic health station in the world, as the result of examination of all climatic health resorts of Europe and America. Herein lies one of the gravest problems confronting the City of Sierra Madre, and upon the scientific solution of which must depend the future development of the City and environs.

While fully sensible of our humanitarian duty for the amelioration of suffering and the saving of life, more especially in combating the great white plague, it is necessary to exercise the greatest care for the enforcement of strict hygienic regulations and laws, under the direction of the State Board of Health and the Bureau of Tuberculosis to protect the population from the serious danger of infection. Indeed, the enforcement of the law is as essential to the sick as to the community, as the neglect of necessary sanitary measures expose the victims to repeated infection and make recovery practically impossible. Restricted areas for hospitals and sanatoria, rest homes, and other places for the reception and treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis should be firmly enforced; and the boarding house menace removed. The Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade should co-operate with the medical profession and Health Department in a local and foreign educational campaign, by means of literature and other publicity measures to regulate and control the flood of immigration of pulmonary invalids, and for the proper supervision of new arrivals. It is important that people of eastern States and of foreign lands should be advised that climate is only one phase of a possible cure. Fresh air and maximum of sunshine are conducive to recovery but cannot be regarded as offering restoration to advanced cases, or to cases in the secondary stage. Pulmonary tuberculosis indicates, among other pathological conditions, abnormal functioning of the myocardium, due to malnutrition and a corresponding loss in glycogen and circulating sugar supply, depleting the hepatic glycogenic functions and corresponding waste of vital energy and power of resistance against the disease. Adrenal depletion is also indicated in every case of tuberculosis. The asthenic character of adrenal insufficiency is noted in the lassitude peculiar to the pulmonary victim. The toxemia of tubercle bacilli depletes the adrenal glands, the endocrine tissue lying above each kidney. It will, therefore, be apparent to any intelligent person that no one form of treatment can be specific in the cure of tuberculosis. Scientific treatment for the sterilization of the tubercle bacilli must be accompanied by judicious medication and dietetic treatment to restore and maintain the level of the sugar content of the blood, to restore normal functions of the myocardium, and the hepatic glycogenic functions, necessary to adrenal support in the condition of hypoadrenia. It is obvious, therefore, that persons not financially able to meet the extra expense incidental to removing from home, doubling the establishment so to speak, could receive much better care at home under home conditions and the family physician than by seeking relief in a boarding house away from all that is dear in life. In the hope that climate alone will cure the disease. The Ayurvedic system of India is probably the most valuable in tuberculosis.

Bachmann, the Misses Clara Bachman, Matilda Ross, Elsa and Ruth Warner, Ida Elder, Alice Alcott, Verda Appleby, Verna Church, Edith and Marion Evans, Dorothy Sodemman of St. Louis, Emily Guenther, Lucile Mann, Lucile Krempel, Blanche Muft and the guest of honor, Miss Meta Sutter.

With the Joyous Easter Message

"The Life of the World to Come"

A THOUGHT FOR EASTER

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

There wasn't much use in anything any more, she thought. Just as her boy was showing such promise he had been taken from her. It was hard to go to church, because she couldn't bear to hear the other boys sing. Her boy had always sung in the choir.

At Easter time, especially, how she had thrilled with pride as she had seen him, one of the first and youngest in the procession, singing as though his little throat would burst with the joy of song.

But she must go. She would hear the Bible lessons, and the prayers and hymns would give her comfort. But she would leave before the offertory, when the boys at Easter always sang so wonderfully and so gloriously. The minister—he was very human—he would understand.

The first hymn had been sung. The boys had marched in. "Welcome, Happy Morning! Age to Age Shall Say," they had sung.

But yes—Easter morning was a happy morning—to most.

And then she began to think, and even as she prayed her lonely thoughts came in and interrupted.

At Easter the creed was sung and not said, and because it was always elaborately sung at this time the congregation listened.

The choir sang it through. "And I look for the Resurrection of the dead; and the Life of the world to come," it sang.

and then a voice repeated the last of all—the clear lovely voice of a boy soprano. And yet was it just ordinary boy soprano? Wasn't it though her own boy were telling this?

The boy's voice rose higher and her, "And the Life of the world come."

Her boy's life had been cut off—there was—the Life of the world come!

COOKED FOOD SALE

On Saturday, April 2nd, a cooked food sale will be held in the show room of the Sierra Madre Garage. This sale will be under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and the money realized will be added to the Disabled Veterans of the World War Fund. The bricks sent out by the Council of Community Service have not sold as well as they should and the amount realized for this fund so far is way below what might be expected from this town. Sierra Madre has always responded so well to worthy appeals that it will be particularly noticeable if we don't come up to the mark on this occasion when the money is to be devoted to the help of disabled American soldiers and sailors—the men who won the war for us.

Miss Florence Vannier is in charge of the sale and she asks that every one who can help in any way whatsoever communicate with her, phone Green 7.

WE WANT FLOWERS

The News wants flowers for the sick, the homesick and the poor for Easter Sunday. If you have flowers and will pick them, the News will send a messenger to get them Saturday morning, the 26th, but we would greatly appreciate your kindness if you would bring them to this office.

With the assistance of Miss Young municipal nurse, we will distribute these flowers Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

Those of you who have flowers can appreciate their beauty and just think what a flower means to a sick person on Easter, or any other day, for that matter, and we ask your assistance in bringing joy to the unfortunate in Sierra Madre.

The names of the contributors, with their permission, will be published in next week's News.

J. MILTON WAS SICK

J. Milton Steinberger was off duty from the garage Saturday "trussing with grippe." He had been feeling bum all week but would not give up. Sunday morning found him on the job doing his best to give service Sierra Madre people have become used to and many do not appreciate.
